Rebel Version of General Thomas' Victory.

A correspondent of the Montreal Gazette who met the [illegible] on board a steamer coming north from Galveston gives the following interesting account of the interview with Hood's version of the defeat of the rebel army in Tennessee.

APPEARANCE OF HOOD.

As the boat left the land behind two (the passengers) began to look at each other and my eyes rested upon a man seated on a chair with a crutch beside him, and with his back bent up to the sea. This was J. B. Hood, late General of the Confederate States army. His dress was a suit of blue flannel, with a black felt hat. On his left hand he wore [illegible] glove, and his person was very neat. With no little interest I went up to him and looked at his features. His face is oval and has his eyes light blue and steady, and his hair brown, while a long light brown beard falls from his chin. In person, he is tall and well made, and his look is quiet, cool and considerate. His age is only thirty four years.

WHAT HOOD'S PLAN WAS.

His quiet look led me to speak to him, of which I was very desirous. I first talked of the boat we were on and the sea, then referred to the late war and his campaign in Tennessee. He said that very little was known about the merits of that campaign, for his report saw light only at the break-up of the Confederacy. His plan was to push into Kentucky and there to increase and supply his army. "If I had been able to do so," said the ex-General, "I would have had 90,000 men, and, with that force could have met any army set against me." It was necessary for him to go on, he said, for the men were losing spirit by falling, and only some bold effort could reanimate them. It was with this view that he strove to defeat the army under General Thomas, "and," said he, "I ought to have beat him at Spring Hill, but some of my officers failed me."

In acting against the line of supply of our army the ex-General sent a force of four thousand five hundred cavalry to break up the railroad. This force found the road covered by a line of strong block houses, each with a cistern inside, and a garrison of fifty men. These were so safe for a time that, to use his words, "the cavalry could do nothing with them, though they took a few by a display of force. Time was necessary to reduce the blockhouses, and that was wanting. The effort made by the ex-General to defeat the force under Gen. Thomas is described by him as follows: The army of the former having left Florence on the 21st of November, 1864, to begin the movement, General Thomas falling back on the 23d upon Columbia.

HOOD'S ACCOUNT OF THE CAMPAIGN.

The want of a good map of the country, and the deep mud through which the army marched, prevented our overtaking the enemy before he reached Columbia, but on the evening of the 27th of November our army was placed in position in front of his works at that place. During the night, however, he evacuated the town, which was considered quite strong in front. Late in the evening of the 28th of November General Forrest with most of his command, crossed Duck river, a few miles above Columbia, and I followed early on the morning of the 29th with Stuart's and Cheatham's corps, and Johnson's division of Lee's corps in the enemy's front at Columbia.

The troops moved in light marching order with only a battery to the corps, my object being to turn the enemy's flank by marching rapidly on roads parallel to the Columbia and Franklin pike, at or near Spring Hill, and to cut off that portion of the enemy at or near Columbia. When I had gotten well on his flank, the enemy discovered my intention, and began to retreat on the pike toward Spring Hill. The cavalry became engaged near that place about midday, but his trains were so strongly guarded that they were unable to break through them. About 4 P. M. our infantry forces, Major General Cheatham in the advance, commenced to come in contact with the enemy about two miles from Spring Hill, through which place the Columbia and Franklin pike runs.

The enemy was at this time moving rapidly along the pike, with some of his troops formed on the flank of his column to protect it. Major General Cheatham was ordered to attack the enemy at once, vigorously and get possession of this pike, and although these orders were frequently and earnestly repeated, he made but a feeble and partial attack, failing to reach the point indicated. Had my instructions been carried out, there is no doubt that we could have possessed ourselves of this road. Stuart's corps and Johnson's division were arriving upon the field to support the attack. Though the golden opportunity had passed at daylight, I did not at dark abandon the hope of dealing the enemy a heavy blow. Accordingly, one of Cheatham's staff officers was sent to show Stuart where (Cheatham's) right rested. In the dark and confusion Stuart did not succeed in getting the position desired, but about 11 P. M. went into bivouac. About 12 P. M., ascertaining that the enemy was moving in great confusion—artillery wagons and troops intermixed—I sent instructions to General Cheatham to advance a heavy line of skirmishers against him and still further impede and confuse his march. This was not accomplished.

The enemy continued to move along the road in hurry and confusion, within hearing, nearly all the night. Thus was lost a great opportunity of striking the enemy for which we had labored so long, the greatest this campaign had offered, and one of the greatest during the war. Lieutenant General Lee, left in front of the enemy at Columbia, was instructed to press the enemy the moment he abandoned his position at that point. The enemy did not abandon his works at that place till dark, showing that his trains obstructed the road for fifteen miles during the day and a great part of the night. At light we followed fast as possible, toward Franklin, Lieutenant General Stuart in the advance, Major General Cheatham following, and Lieutenant General Lee, with the trains, moving for Columbus, on the same road. We pursued the enemy rapidly, and compelled him to burn a number of his wagons.

He made a feint as if to give battle on the hills about four miles south of Franklin, but as soon as our forces began to deploy for the attack and to flank him on his left, he retired slowly to Franklin.

I learned from despatches, captured at Spring Hill, from Thomas to Schofield, that the latter was instructed to hold that place till the position at Franklin could be made secure, indicating the intention of Thomas to hold Franklin and his strong works at Murfreesboro. Thus I knew that it was all important to attack Schofield before he could make himself strong, and if he should escape at Franklin he would gain his works about Nashville. The nature of the position was such as to render it inexpedient to attempt any further flank movement and I therefore determined to attack him in front and without delay.

On the 30th of November, Stuart's corps was placed in position on the right, Cheatham's on the left, and the cavalry on either flank, the main body on the right under Forrest. Johnson's division of Lee's corps also became engaged on the left during the engagement. The line advanced at 4 P. M. with orders to drive the enemy at the point of the bayonet into or across the Big Harpeth river, while General Forrest, if successful, was to cross the river and destroy his trains and harass his columns. The troops moved forward most gallantly to the attack. We carried the enemy's line of hastily constructed works handsomely.

We then advanced against his interior line and succeeded in carrying it also in some places. Here the engagement was of the fiercest possible character. Our men possessed themselves of the exterior of the works, while the enemy held the interior. Many of our men were killed entirely inside the works. The brave men captured were taken inside his works in the edge of the town. The struggle lasted till near midnight, when the enemy abandoned his works and crossed the river, leaving his dead and wounded in our possession. Never did troops fight more gallantly. The works of the enemy were so hastily constructed that, while he had a slight abattis in front of part of his line, there was none on his extreme right. During the day I was restrained from using my artillery on account of the women and children remaining in the town. At night it was massed ready to continue the action in the morning, but the enemy retired. We captured about a thousand prisoners and several stands of colors.

Our total loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was four thousand five hundred. Among the killed were Major General P. R. Cleburne, Brigadier Generals Gist, John Adams, Strahl and Granbury. Major General Brown, Brigadier Generals Carter, Manigault, Quarles, Cockrell and Scott were wounded and Brigadier General Gordon captured. The number of dead left on the field by the enemy indicated that his loss was equal or near our own. The next morning at daylight, the wounded being cared for and the dead buried, we moved forward toward Nashville, Forrest with his cavalry pursuing the enemy vigorously.

EXPLAINING LATIN TO THE LORD. The most absurd display in the Latin line which we have seen lately was the apparent attempt of a clergyman in a prayer at a recent celebration to make the dead language intelligible to the Almighty. He said, "We thank thee O Lord, that those our friends, were thus permitted to die in battle for dulce et decorum est pro mori—which means that it is sweet and honorable to die for one's country." It is very evident that the reverend gentleman addressed this prayer rather to his audience than to his maker.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

FRIDAY MORNING DECEMBER 15, 1865

Proposed Mail Route through Montana

An effort is being made to have a mail route established across the continent through the State of Iowa the territories of Nebraska and Montana and perhaps thence on to the Pacific The Deseret News (Salt Lake) of a late date thus speaks of this matter

A G Lawrence Esq Special Mail Agent returned to this city on Saturday morning 4th inst after an inspection trip to Helena Montana Territory with a view to recommend postal routes as far north as that point which is about one hundred and forty miles from Virginia City As a result of this trip he is about to recommend an independent postal route from Sioux City to Virginia City distance 1,022 miles then another from Virginia City by Gallatin Dennison (late Confederate Gulch) down the east side of the Missouri river to Fort Benton The river runs nearly north from where the Jefferson, Madison and Gallatin Forks unite to Fort Benton, a distance of about 250 miles from which point its course is nearly due east Thus an independent postal route would be opened through from Great Salt Lake City by Virginia City Gallatin Helena and Dennison to Fort Benton An independent route will also be recommended from Virginia City by Silver Bow Deer Lodge and Blackfoot to Hell Gate where it will unite with the route now being opened to Lewiston, Walla Walla and to all points on the Pacific coast. These points compass all the main discovered regions in Montana Territory and permeate what must soon be very populous settlements in consequence of the richness of the mines already discovered and the large number of miners settling to work them A line of route will also be recommended by way of Bannock Montana City and Silver Bow, to unite with the route previously named leading to Hell Gate

Sioux City, which is mentioned as the eastern terminus of the route that is to be recommended is situated on the Missouri river near the western boundary of Iowa This mail route will, if established, afford excellent postal facilities for the people of Montana and northern Idaho Hell Gate, Fort Benton, and numerous other places are to be supplied—a thing hitherto unknown in those localities This proposed route from Sioux City should be extended through to Walla Walla, and thence to Oregon. We could get our mails in a much shorter time, and we believe at a less expense, in this way than by the long, tedious and circuitous route by Salt Lake and California It is seldom the case that we get anything overland in a shorter time than two months If Montana succeed in obtaining the mails in the manner proposed above, an extension of the route to Oregon should be sought for. We might expect to receive our mails through from the East by this route within three or four weeks time The necessities of both States will require the continuance of the daily mail between California and Oregon, but this circumstance affords no reason why the northern overland line should not be established. The Territories of Idaho and Montana are rapidly assuming an importance which must make it impossible for the Government to overlook or neglect them. It can hardly be doubted that a mail route from some point on the Mississippi to Montana will be established the coming summer

THE "TONE" OF VIRGINIA.—Since the end of the rebellion many Virginians have taken occasion to declare that they "could not bear to see their State divided, and two Governments erected within the limits of the once proud Old Dominion" The rebel Governor Letcher was one of the class of patriots who were so painfully apprehensive lest the "honor of Virginia" should suffer by a division of her ancient territory Certain chivalrous Virginians, under pretense of "preserving the honor" of their State, have caused all her troubles and were the authors of her final dishonor. The proud, noble and aristocratic "sons of the sacred soil," in their solicitude lest the "honor" of their State should suffer by the maintenance of the State of West Virginia, have resolved to reunite the two sections and bring the loyalists west of the mountains under the domination of the rebels of the eastern portion of the State. Their Legislature has withdrawn its assent to the establishment of the State of West Virginia. Governor Pierpont, that representative of Virginia loyalty—the man who told the Comptroller of the Currency that the "South would never help pay the national debt and her people would be d d fools if they did"—vetoes the measure. This scheme of subverting the State of West Virginia and demanding the d[illegible] of the act by which the division was accomplished, is but an exhibition of the impertinence which characterizes the "high toned gentlemen of the Old Dominion." The proper way to settle this new difficulty would be for the President to kick Pierpont and his legislature out of doors and appoint a Provisional Government, as was done in the other States. The chivalry of Virginia are evidently spoiling for want of proper restraint. We expect to hear next that they have determined to go to war to recover their lost territory

Mr. O'Meara, of the State Rights Democrat, called on us yesterday. As his own party can testify, and as we also are able to bear witness, he is a "Democrat" "after the most straitest sect" of that political faith. We don't like to undertake to define his political views more fully fearing that we might fail to illustrate the doctrines of State rights and secession so forcibly as he can. However, we may say that, notwithstanding the downfall of the Confederacy, the abolition of slavery, and some other little discouragements, Mr. O'Meara still adheres hopefully to the fortunes of his party

As an offset to the list of English contributors to the rebel cotton loan, lately published in the New York papers, Punch gives the names of American subscribers to the "Fenian fund" The total of subscriptions on this list is nearly $9 000 000 Sumner Bryant, Bennett, Ben. Wood, Gen Grant, Beecher, and others, are put down for sums varying from two dollars to ten thousand The whole thing is done up in Punch's inimitable style and is about the choicest bit of pleasantry that has lately appeared

ERROR—In the debate in the House, on the 9th inst. on the resolutions relative to Mr Lincoln, as printed in the OREGONIAN of the 12th inst. Mr Lane is represented as saying "he would be satisfying himself should he vote for or against the resolutions" The word satisfying should be "stultifying" Quite a difference—REPORTER

The Montana Post of Nov 18th, contains the following

Hanauer Solomon & Co's train of twenty seven wagons each drawn by ten yoke of cattle and loaded with a general assortment of merchandise arrived in town on Wednesday last from Leavenworth Kansas They were 1[illegible]2 days on the road Considering the continuous labor they have undergone, the stock appears in good condition The train was attacked by Indians once and some of the cattle were driven off by them but the stock were recovered with but little delay Aside from its duration the trip may be considered as having been a successful one

On the Missouri river two miles from Canon Ferry a belt of four silver lodes has been struck on the hills about two hundred yards from the river The ore is about two thirds metal—silver and copper—and very rich The "J N Wells" is of this class and the Little Nesbitt Both are surrounded by wood and water and are being developed by shafts Large fortunes are in these lodes S P Harlow is one of the lucky finders

Our first informant of the unequaled richness of the "Uncle Sam" lode has returned to town and reports, from ocular proof, the ledge to be as far as opened eight feet wide and enormously rich No regular system of working it is being observed The richest specimens are picked or pried out and the fine decomposed quartz then has the precious metal taken from it by the panning process

Adjourned.

HOUSE

Prayer by Rev. Mr Dickinson.

The committee on military affairs to whom was referred a resolution asking our delegation in Congress to use their influence to secure an appropriation from Congress to aid in the construction of a military road from Klamath Lake to Ruby City reported against the resolution on the grounds that Congress had already made an appropriation for a road leading from Eugene City to Ruby City, which road ran within a few miles of the proposed route throughout its entire length.

Mr Underwood moved to adopt

Mr. Fay stated that, in the committee, when he found that his first proposition would not be acceded to, he had tried to have the resolution passed making Boise City the terminus, but this was refused also There are now two roads, one leading from Jacksonville to Canyon City and the other from Eugene City to Ruby City. Both these were toll roads and those who traveled upon them were obliged to pay tribute to these monopolies It is the design of this resolution to secure for the people of Southern Oregon a free military road Gentlemen on this floor think there is no necessity for this road. We think there is, and claim that the whole matter should be submitted to Congress for its decision I know that the gentlemen on the other side of the House will try to kill the bill—especially the gentleman from Lane, who is himself interested in the central road.

Mr Underwood—The gentleman from Jackson seems to consider this a measure of my own, and without replying to his base insinuation, I will state that this new route could not interfere with the central road anyhow There has already been an appropriation for building a road almost exactly over the route which he proposed When this was shown to him in the committee, he tried to get around it by making Boise City the terminus of the route which he advocates. It is well known that there is already a road from Ruby City to Boise His object is to get up a proposition ostensibly for the good of the people and then have it voted down so that he can claim it as a factious opposition to a minority In view of the manner in which they have acted, I think they have been treated as well as they deserve For my own part, I am sick of their arrogance If they would put their shoulders to the wheel and assist us in the legislation which the country so much needs, instead of acting so obstinately I would feel more charitable towards them This measure does not interfere with any individual interest of mine whatever, but my strongest objection to it is that it is asking too much from Congress She has always been very liberal towards us, and there is no necessity for this additional appropriation Any road to be kept in good repair in that country must be a toll road

Mr Fay—The gentleman from Lane is excessively sensitive He imagines he has been insulted, and he is sick of the manner in which the minority have acted We do not regard this self-constituted Cæsar as quite so important a personage as he represents himself "Upon what has this our Cæsar fed that he has grown so great?" I do not stand here by the favor of this or any other gentleman on this floor, or your favor, Mr Speaker or the favor of the Governor of this State or any other man, but we stand here by the favor of our constituencies That man or any other man upon this floor has no right to impugn our motives So far from our insulting him we have endeavored to be as cautious as possible under the circumstances but we have been frequently insulted upon this floor even the Speaker has descended from his seat

Mr Speaker—The gentleman from Jackson will take his seat The Chair cannot permit any such language

Mr Fay—I want to know if I am to be choked down on this question

Mr Speaker—The gentleman from Jackson has the floor He will confine himself to the question before the House and proceed

Mr Lawson—In the absence of any minority report I am unable to see any good reason why I should not vote against this bill

Mr Speaker—The gentleman from Jackson has the floor

Mr Fay stated that the reason that he as a member of the committee to whom this bill was referred did not bring in a minority report, was that he did not have time to do so He described the course taken by the different routes, and said he wanted a free road so that his constituents could avoid paying tribute to either of the roads now in existence We cannot agree here Congress has all the facts in the case and I think it is only common justice to let the matter go there

Mr Parker as Chairman of the committee could say that he had never had any feeling in the premises but to do what was just and to the interests of the country I consented to the report because I was convinced by the facts laid before the committee that the building of such a road would involve a needless expenditure by Congress There is now a survey completed for a road running almost exactly over the same ground This road has been built a considerable distance and will be pushed through as rapidly as possible

The report of the committee rejecting the bill was adopted ten members voting in the negative

Mr Hogue chairman of the select committee to whom was referred the resolution asking that the port of entry at Astoria be extended so as to include Portland, reported in favor of the resolution

Mr. Wakefield moved to adopt the report

Mr Hogue wished to explain why he voted in favor of the proposition When the matter came up yesterday he had opposed it from some misapprehensions that it would be injurious to his constituents On examining the resolution he had found nothing in it which could be likely to conflict with the interests either of the country east of the Cascades or the State at large Another reason that influenced him was that he had been credibly informed by gentlemen who were members of the House at its last session that by an understanding effected at that time this resolution was passed at that session, but through mistake in engrossing it failed to become a law, and now in good faith, unless there is some obvious reason for not carring out the compromise, it should be acceded to For these reasons he had concluded to vote in favor of the resolution

Mr Lawson offered a memorial representing that many bonds of the United States are now owned by citizens of this State and not being taxable they cause unequal taxation and revenue of the State and requesting therefore that Congress consider the propriety of redeeming or recalling said non taxable bonds as soon as practicable by issuing others not made with that condition, believing that such action now that the war is over and the credit of the Government ample to make the change with adequate compensation or equivalents to the bond holders and suggesting that such action would promote justice and benefit the people generally

Mr Bowlby offered a bill for the payment of the members and officers of the Legislature appropriating five thousand dollars or as much of it as might be necessary for that purpose

Mr Wakefield offered a joint resolution to elect on Wednesday next a Penitentiary Commissioner in the place of Col Cornelius who has not qualified

The bill for the repeal of the Specific Contract Law came up on its first reading

Mr Underwood moved to reject

On a call of the House all the members were found present

Mr Underwood moved the previous question, and the vote resulted as follows

Ayes—Messrs Bowlby Cartwright Gingles Hogue Holman Lawson McCartney Pierce Powell Quick Shipley Turner Underwood Wakefield Wasserman, Warner and Mr Speaker—17

Nays—Messrs Beall Callison Chaplin Cox Fay Fisher, Gillette Glass Lane McCormack Murphy Otey Parker Perkins Smith, Tate and Thornton—17

So the House refused to reject and the bill went to the Printer

Adjourned to 2 o'clock, P M

AFTERNOON

Mr Underwood moved to take from the table the Senate joint resolution to adjourn on the 16th inst Agreed to

Mr Underwood moved to amend by striking out the word sixteenth and inserting the words "on Tuesday the 19th at noon" Amendment was agreed to and the resolution as amended was adopted

A message was received from the Senate announcing its concurrence in the House Joint resolution in regard to investigating the accounts of the office of the State Treasurer and the appointment on the committee of Messrs Grim, Hovey and Caldwell The Speaker appointed Messrs Underwood, Bowlby and Fay on the part of the House

A message was received from the Senate transmitting a memorial instructing our delegates to ask Congress to appropriate the sum of $4,574 02 for the reimbursement of Nathan Olney and others for expenses incurred under the old Provisional Government of Oregon Concurred in.

Also a memorial against taxing mining interest was concurred in without opposition

Several bills were read

A message from the Senate announced that that body had concurred in the House amendment to the resolution to adjourn sine die on the 19th inst Also, that House joint resolution to admit no new business after to-day, was amended by inserting Wednesday the 13th, instead of Tuesday the 12th inst, was concurred in The House accepted the amendment

Mr Shipley introduced a bill to substitute the old territorial seal for the present State seal

On motion of Mr Underwood, the House decided that on adjourning to day, it stand adjourned to ten o'clock to morrow

A number of bills were read, discussed, and amended, which will be noticed at length when they are finally passed

Joint Resolutions

The following resolutions, offered by Mr Mitchell, were adopted by the Legislature on the 12th inst. without opposition :

WHEREAS—The Congress of the United States of America did on the 2d day of March, anno domini, 1799 enact a law entitled "An Act to regulate the collection of duties on imports and tonnage,

AND WHEREAS a careful and honest observance of the provisions of said Act is a duty incumbent upon every good citizen while a violation of its provisions or departure from its requirements is a direct stab at the national existence by opening the door to innumerable frauds upon its revenue, which is its life,

AND WHEREAS during the past year there have been repeated and flagrant violations of the wholesome provisions of this law perpetrated by divers persons navigating the high seas between the ports of San Francisco, California, Victoria, Vancouvers' Island and Portland, Oregon, by which gross frauds have been practiced upon the revenue of the nation,

AND WHEREAS through the persevering and truly commendable vigilance and untiring performance of duty on the part of W. L, Adams, Collector of Customs at the port of Astoria, Oregon, divers of these offenders have been detected in, and prosecuted and convicted of such offenses, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, That being profoundly sensible of the importance of a strict observance of all laws having for their purpose the protection of the national revenue, and especially that of March 2d, 1799, which was prepared, matured, and enacted by the ablest minds of our revolutionary statesmen, and being fully advised that many of its provisions have within the past year been wilfully violated by persons engaged in trading upon and navigating the waters of the Pacific ocean bordering our western coast, we do solemnly condemn all such violations of law, whether perpetrated by commanders of vessels or subordinate officers, as direct assaults upon our national existence, and do protest that those who engage in such violations of law—who are tried and found guilty by a jury of their peers—are not entitled to and should not receive Executive clemency

Resolved, That we heartily commend Collector W L Adams for the vigilance he has exercised in ferreting out, and bringing to trial and conviction persons and vessels engaged in those frauds upon our revenue

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be and he is hereby instructed to forward a certified copy of these resolutions, under seal of State one to Andrew Johnson, President of the United States one to W H. Seward, Secretary of State and one to Hugh McCulloch Secretary of the Treasury

The following resolutions, offered by Mr Pyle on the 12th inst , was unanimously adopted by the Oregon Legislature

SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL NO 1

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled

Your memorialists, the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon, would respectfully represent that in their opinion the passage of any law by Congress imposing a tax upon mining claims or the right of mining upon the public lands of the United States other than upon gold bars and the general income tax already in force, would be greatly detrimental to the interests of that portion of our countrymen who are engaged in developing the rich mineral resources of our country without resulting in any benefit to the General Government, and at the same time would work a manifest injustice to those hardy and industrious prospectors and miners who deserve the encouragement and protection of the Government Your memorialists represent that all the products of mining are already made to pay tribute by the income tax, and it would be contrary to the principles of justice to tax the ore both before and after it is separated from the earth in which it is found imbedded nor do they think it right or expedient to tax the muscle of the hardy laborer for the simple right of working to better his own condition in this branch of industry which so often rewards his long years of honest toil with dreams instead of gold and rags and poverty

THE GENUINE HALL'S PULMONARY BALSAM is sold for fifty cents only It is the quickest and most efficacious remedy extant for Coughs Colds Asthma and all Pulmonary affections

ATTEMPT OF PRISONERS PREVENTED.—On Tuesday evening a plot of the convicts to escape from the Penitentiary was prevented, as has been the case in times past, through the vigilance of Mr. Gardner, Warden. [illegible] prisoners had smuggled into the prison an old pick, [illegible] on Tuesday, as it was a bitter cold day, and [illegible] returned from their work on the outside with their [illegible] slowly buttoned. At 4 o'clock they were given [illegible]. It is usually the custom to lock them in [illegible] at 6 o'clock P. M., at this season of the year, [illegible] actions on this particular occasion gave Mr. [illegible] uneasiness, and he being on watch for [illegible] suspecting they were concocting a scheme to [illegible] gave them the signal to go to their cells at twenty [illegible] before 6 o'clock. It was well that he did so, for [illegible] have required but about that length of time to [illegible] opening through the northern wall, sufficiently [illegible] man to creep through and escape. They had [illegible] most diligently to work immediately after supper [illegible] had but one course of brick to remove to effect [illegible]. But the poor fools, had they obtained [illegible] they could not possibly have been successful [illegible] away, as the rifle of a guard would have arrested the first man that would have dared to protrude, [illegible] were all present about the prison. It is [illegible] singular circumstance, that for the three years [illegible] has been employed at the prison, and very [illegible] that time solitary and alone as keeper, all efforts [illegible] convicts to escape have been "nipped in the bud." [illegible] a vigilant guardian of these desperate [illegible] it must be acknowledged that most of those [illegible] of the desperate class, and we can only trust [illegible] future efforts of escape may be as successfully [illegible]

[illegible] HOUSE.—The denizens of the dark alleys on that block bounded by Alder, Second, [illegible] streets, was yesterday the scene of much [illegible] and excitement, caused by an irregularity [illegible] concerns of a certain Celestial family—[illegible] and Mrs. Ah Yim—who were united in the [illegible] of wedlock by His Honor Judge Hoffman on [illegible]. It seems that unlike Cæsar's wife, the [illegible] by the humble Celestial was not above suspicion [illegible] her genius of the moon-eyed persuasion, [illegible] upon the bliss of their honeymoon. This [illegible] the unfaithful Mrs. John, during the [illegible] from home, and his quiet fireside [illegible] him of a stock of gold and silver coin, by breaking [illegible] in which the valuables of the family were [illegible]. Returning, and learning the true state of the [illegible] his wife in the [illegible] of his heart, [illegible], and repaired at once to the Judge who [illegible] made him happy, for redress of grievances. [illegible] in the [illegible] of the woman and her [illegible] who were held in bonds of $500 to appear this [illegible] when an examination will be made of the merits of the case. The lawful husband of the [illegible] to be an honest China[illegible], while she and [illegible] bear the blessed impress of the effects of [illegible], which renders it pretty [illegible] has been made a victim of misplaced [illegible], and the case will stand as an offset to [illegible] white men and women at [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible] day was a gala day for the skaters [illegible]. Early in the morning, and until late [illegible] the music of the scene, blending with the [illegible] and gentlemen kept merry the hearts [illegible] of this most excellent open air exercise. [illegible] bustled heads were no more to be [illegible] ledger accounts and parlor [illegible] for unsettled bills, and calls "at [illegible]" neglected for the sole occupation of [illegible] on skates. Schools were a [illegible] of what could the student of the [illegible] might to have uppermost in the head [illegible] buckle of a particular pair of those [illegible] motion on the glassy surface [illegible]. It is rare sport, and on the [illegible] but once in the fall [illegible] those who use the most enjoyment in [illegible] and giddy laugh of th[illegible] on the ice [illegible] is far more health-giving than the [illegible] at a neighboring watering [illegible] their cup be full. But one incident [illegible] to mar the pleasure of the day. A [illegible] broke one of his arms, but it was [illegible] the scene, and were unable to learn the [illegible] little fellow.

[illegible] S. D. SHATTUCK J. Dec. 14th. [illegible] In the case of the State vs. George [illegible] prevailed, or [illegible] submitted, which holds [illegible] until the next sitting of the Grand [illegible] of the State vs. Pollitz was Saunders, [illegible] Court, a motion for a new [illegible] evidence would be [illegible] was not sufficient cause [illegible] trial. The court stated that in such [illegible] highly [illegible] that nine jurors out [illegible] to agree, and the case would be [illegible] term to term for an [illegible] length of [illegible] those [illegible] of the peace [illegible] position. They are liable to conform [illegible] their duty, and if they should [illegible] their duty a little they [illegible] not be [illegible] as a bid to lawless[illegible] in the [illegible] of their duty. [illegible] he would much rather that one hundred [illegible] dead, than one [illegible] officer [illegible] the fine imposed upon Mr. [illegible] Here ends the case, which, were we privileged [illegible] a word [illegible] term a [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] DIRECTORY FOR 1866.—The next will be [illegible] of the publication of the above work, [illegible] press. As a Directory and [illegible] is valuable and interesting to the whole [illegible] of the Pacific coast. As a compendium [illegible] general intelligence for the use of our [illegible] is without a rival, and as a [illegible] the importance of it will at once be [illegible] business man who takes into [illegible] it is circulated gratuitously in all the [illegible] offices, steamboats, stage [illegible] and [illegible] Washington Territory, Idaho and [illegible] by Mr. S. [DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO DECEMBER 13.

More Trouble with Virginia.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Considerable excitement has been manifested at the receipt of a letter from Governor Pierpont of Virginia, addressed to the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House enclosing a copy of an act passed by the General Assembly of Virginia, repealing the assent heretofore given to the division of the State by the formation of the State of West Virginia.

Specie Payments—Georgia Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Jay Cooke is in Washington urging a plan for preparing to resume specie payment on the 1st of January, 1867, and held a long interview with Secretary McCulloch.

Provisional Governor Johnson, of Georgia, sent a telegram to the President last night, asking to be relieved, and recommending that Gov. Jenkins be allowed to take his office.

A. H. Stephens Again.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Alex. H. Stephens declines to be a candidate for the United States Senate from Georgia. Jenkins, Governor elect of Georgia, has named the 15th of January for his inauguration. Provisional Governor has issued a proclamation declaring the election of Cohen P. Cook, H. Buchanan, E. G. Cabaniss and W. P. Waffer to Congress, but will give them no certificates.

Kentucky Going to Defend her Rights.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—In the Kentucky Legislature, on Monday, a bill to allow negro testimony, was rejected in the Senate. A resolution was introduced declaring that Kentucky had reserved rights which she was prepared to defend.

The Slavery Question in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 12.—The city is considerably excited by a proclamation of Gen. Palmer, announcing that slavery is abolished. The slavery party declared that the constitutional amendment has not yet been adopted, and therefore that Gen. Palmer has no right to declare slavery abolished. There is another cause of excitement in a controversy between the Mayor and the common council, the latter having impeached the Mayor. The trial is looked for with interest.

The military commission in session here, is trying Harvey Walls alias William Henry, a noted guerilla. The case is one of considerable importance and will occupy the time of the commission for several days.

About Jeff. Davis in his Retirement.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A dispatch from Fortress Monroe says: Jeff. Davis enjoys good health. He has comfortable apartments, a generous wardrobe, good table and plenty of reading matter. He thinks the President's message generally a wise and good document, but is disappointed that it is not more specific in relation to the disposition which is to be made of himself. Davis' eyes have lost the contemptuous look they once had, and is less haughty in his manner and sarcastic in his speech than formerly.

The health of C. C. Clay is improving.

Miscellaneous.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Thieves and robbers are holding high carnival at Indianapolis. Burglaries and robberies are of nightly occurrance. The police proving entirely inefficient, a meeting has been called to appoint a vigilance committee to deal with the scoundrels.

Dispatches to the Chicago Republican says that Gen. Logan has declined to accept the Mexican Mission. The announcement is premature.

Mrs. Page, daughter of Major General Benj. M. Prentis, committed suicide at her father's house in Quincy, Illinois, yesterday morning by drowning herself in the cistern. The cause of the melancholy act has not been made known.

General Butler, it is said proposes to write Gen. Grant's history from the time he entered West Point up to this hour.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The suit of Laura Keene in the Superior Court of New York, to restrain certain theatrical managers from producing our "American Cousin," was dismissed by Judge Barbour.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The International Hotel at Cairo, with a block of frame buildings, was destroyed by fire last night.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Another extensive fire occurred at Cairo this morning, destroying nine buildings with their contents valued at $30,000. The fire was on the corner of Commercial Avenue and Twelfth street.

A boiler attached to a stationary engine in the Freight Depot of the Illinois Central Railroad, Cairo, exploded this morning killing Robert Hall, the engineer, and dangerously wounding Lawrence Bolton.

Gen. Q. A. Gilmore's resignation was accepted yesterday, to take effect on the 5th of December. Also that of Gen. George Porter, of Ohio.

France and the United States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A letter from the Emperor Napoleon is said to have been received at the State Department, requesting the recognition of Maximillian's Government in Mexico, to which the Secretary of State has replied, fully declining to accede to the request, and giving reasons why its anticipated Mexican question so far as this country is concerned, will soon come to a head.

Gen. Grant's Views.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Gen. Grant had an interview with the President yesterday, and communicated to him the result of his observations during his trip through North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. He was everywhere respectfully received by the people, who almost unanimously desire a re-admission to their old position in the Union, and that their professions of future good behavior are honest and sincere.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Mississippi and Louisiana delegations called upon the Secretary of War yesterday in regard to the re-building of the levees on the Mississippi river, where they had been destroyed or damaged. The President and Secretary at once agreed to send a force to rebuild them, and stated that his authority to do so was that the States were under military rule.

Affairs on the Rio Grande.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—A letter, dated mouth of the Rio Grande, Nov. 28th, says yesterday four man-of-war were lying off the mouth of the Rio Grande. The largest and latest comer discharged by means of lighters, about 800 of the Austrian legion, consisting of German, French, Austrian and Spanish soldiers. They are now encamped on the Mexican side of the river. The mules and artillery were also landed.

The Imperialist passenger steamers Alamo and Camargo came down to take the legion up to Matamoras. Some men on the American side fired on the boats, but no damage was done. A few days since a force of sailors and marines landed from the French vessels, and went up to Matamoras. They drove back the Liberals and returned to the ships.

Don Servando Leon, Liberal Governor of Tamaulipas, spends his time between Brownsville and Clarksville. Some days ago an officer, under his orders, crossed the river and cut loose the Imperial river steamer Rio Grande, and brought her over to our bank of the river. The colored guard of the 118th United States Volunteers was placed on board of her, and she is now in charge of the United States custom house officers of this place. The French commander of the navy visited this place several times about this affair, and expressed himself [illegible] finally to have our officers keep her until the Government at Washington can be heard from, so long as we don't give her up.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Anthony called up a [illegible] of resolutions of Mr. Stevens for the appointment of a committee on the subject of the [illegible] States, and moved to amend, so as to [illegible] it a concurrent instead of a joint resolution; also by omitting the last clause, which provides that until the report of said committee, no [illegible] from the rebellious States shall be received [illegible]. Anthony said the resolution, as it [illegible] from the other house, was in contravention of the constitutional provisions, making each [illegible] the judge of the qualifications of its own [illegible]. The resolutions, as amended by Anthony, were adopted.

[illegible], Dec. 12.—A bill was introduced in the [illegible] on Monday, for the incorporation of the [illegible] Pacific Railway, with a capital of one hundred millions of dollars. It contemplates a route from Springfield, Mo., to Albuquerque, Mexico, thence near the thirty fifth parallel to San Diego, and by Tejon Pass to San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—In the House Schenck [illegible] a joint resolution requesting the President not to muster out the officers of the reserve corps until [illegible] be taken by Congress. Passed.

A joint resolution appointing a committee of three to ascertain the status of the several States was received from the Senate and passed.

Farnsworth offered a resolution that the rebels should not be granted citizenship while they refused suffrage to the negro.

A New Fenian President.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—At a meeting of the Fenian Brotherhood in this city last evening the action of the Fenian Senate in impeaching President O'Mahoney and Treasurer Killian was unanimously sustained. The election of Wm. R. Roberts as successor to O'Mahoney was unanimously endorsed.

Things in Canada—San Domingo.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The French inhabitants of Canada are adding to the disquiet which reigns there on account of the Fenian disturbances. The French organs and members of the French Association are known as the Sons of Liberty and have become very bold in their demonstrations of confederation schemes. The Canadian Government has offered as an inducement for continuing the reciprocity to improve the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals so as to admit vessels drawing from 12 to 14 feet of water, thus securing uninterrupted transportation by water between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic and giving the same privileges to American and Canadian vessels free of duty.

Advices from San Domingo of November 27th, says: The existing Government is at a loss to know whether the Dominican Republic is an independent state or simply an appendage of France. A semi-official meeting of the Dominican Congress was held on the 2d ult., when the expediency of sending another envoy to Washington with a proffer of a depot on the Bay of Lanceville, as a free gift to the United States, was discussed at length. It was finally decided that no steps should be taken in the matter.

Foreign News.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The steamer Teutonia has arrived. She left Hamburg on the 25th. She did not touch at Southampton owing to the prevalence of cholera at that port.

It is stated the ex-King of Naples has determined to sell his possessions in the Papal States and settle for life in Hungary.

A letter from London of Nov. 5th says: That on December 24th the Irish loyal members of Parliament were to meet in Dublin to form an Irish party and consider measures for the relief of Ireland. This conference has been arranged at the instance of Irish bishops, and will include O'Connor and other popular Irish leaders.

We have news from Europe to the 30th. Stephens, the Fenian, had been captured. The trial of several of the arrested Fenians on the charge of treason and felony, is progressing at Dublin.

A public meeting at Manchester strongly denounced British atrocities in Jamaica.

A London paper states that the feeling there relative to American affairs is not satisfactory.

Lamartine, the French author, publishes a disquisition magnifying into undue importance the monarchial enterprise of Maximilian in Mexico, declaring that the American continent rightly belongs to Europe and speaking of the United States in contemptuous and ill-natured terms. The Paris Journal Des Debates contains a severe criticism on Lamartine's letter.

The Herald's Dublin correspondent of Nov. 20th says: It seems as if the doctrines of the Fenian Society had eaten up to the very steps of the throne of the Government. Its evident extension among the masses of the people of that country renders it equal if it does not exceed the Society of United Irishmen. If it were not for the conservative men of every shade and creed in Ireland aided by the Catholic clergy, Ireland would now be submerged in the blood of her people and the English nation.

Soldiers becoming disabled or diseased while in the service, are entitled to a Pension. Those who served in any war previous to the 30th of March, 1855, are entitled to Bounty Land. Those who served in the Navy during the late war, and were legally attached to a vessel or squadron on duty, although not participating in the taking of prizes, are entitled to Prize Money. In many Indian Treaties provision is made for payment of Spoliation Claims out of Annuities. To collect the large number of such claims now owned in this country,—for the settlement of which no similar provision has been made by treaty—demand should be made at once therefor at the proper Department, and, if found just, recommendation will be made to Congress to pass an act retaining the amount thereof out of the Annuities.

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE—MINISTER ADAMS TO EARL RUSSELL

(Concluded.)

For if it be once fairly established as a principle of the international code that a neutral Power is the sole judge of the degree to which it has done its duty under a code of its own making for the prevention of gross and flagrant wrongs instituted in its own ports by the agents of one belligerent, with numbers of its own subjects, and perpetrated upon the commerce of the other on the high seas, if it be conceded that the neutral upon reclamation made for the injuries thus done by reason of the manifest insufficiency of its means of repression, which it has at all times the power to improve at will, can deliberately decline to respond to any such appeal, fall back upon the little that it has attempted as an excuse and thenceforward claim with justice to be released from the inevitable consequences that must ensue from its inaction, then it must surely follow that the only competition between neutral Powers hereafter will be, not which shall do the most, but which shall do the least to fulfill its obligations of interdiction of the industry and enterprise of its people in promoting the conflicts that take place between belligerents on the ocean. If this be once recognized as good law through the authority which the influence of Her Majesty's Government can attach to it, I dare not venture to foresee how much reluctance there may be on the part of the people whom I have the honor to represent to accept and act upon it. Hitherto a want of eagerness on the part of the most adventurous and least scrupulous portion of them to [illegible] in enterprise in behalf of any belligerent that promised personal advantage cannot be charged upon them. The references made by your lordship to the cases of Spain and Portugal must have convinced you of this truth. The prospect of impunity in such enterprises is all that is needed. Further than this I might only venture to suggest to your lordship to consider which of the nations of the world presents on every sea around the globe the most tempting prizes in an event no friend would more deplore than myself of its being again as it has so often been heretofore doomed to be afflicted by the calamities of a war.

It does so happen, however, that no doctrine of this kind has yet been accepted as legitimate by the Government which I represent. On the contrary, it has ever assumed the painful and difficult task of responding to the just appeals of foreign friendly nations for protection against such enterprises. Whenever representations have been made by their agents, measures have been promptly taken to enforce the laws, and when the issue proved the inefficiency of the existing statutes, the duty of further legislation has been promptly recognized. This appears to me to constitute the full obligation of a neutral. Singularly enough, this course was taken in at least three instances, on the representations made by authority of Her Majesty's Government. I allude to the first law passed in 1794, in consequence of the complaints and at the special instance of Hammond, and to another in 1797. Your lordship appears to me but partially to state what was done when you dwell only on the compensation actually made for the cases in which there had been a failure to act. These laws were enacted to provide a better preventive process in all future cases, mainly for the protection of British commerce. The third example was the law of 1838, which was the remedy applied to excesses committed on the boundary of the British provinces in Canada by persons in the United States whom the existing statutes were found not effective to restrain or punish.

Thus it was, too, in the case of Portugal, to which your lordship is pleased once more to call my attention. And here I must ask permission to restate my view of the matter, which seems to have failed to be fully considered by your lordship. I certainly understood you to introduce the case into the correspondence as going to show this, that the Government of the United States had set a precedent of disavowing further responsibility in cases of reclamations for injuries committed on the high seas by outfits made, in despite of them, in their ports, against the commerce of Portugal, which the existing law had proved on trial ineffective to prevent or punish. This is the precise position which I understand Her Majesty's Government to assume. Hence the value of the example as a personal argument in the present instance.

In opposition to this view it has been my purpose, by appealing to the facts in the case, to show that the Government had at once recognized the validity of the remonstrances of Portugal by first resorting to the laws already provided to meet the case by appeal to the Courts and next by promptly responding to the later demand of the same nation for more effectual modes of restraint than those which experience had shown to be ineffectual. To meet this demand a new law more particularly addressed to the object of prevention had been enacted, the efficacy of which proved so considerable as actually to elicit from the remonstrating party repeated expressions of his satisfaction with it. It does not appear that any further security was ever asked than this. The Government had done everything that could be reasonably required. It was therefore discharged from responsibility.

There were, indeed, subsequent cases of wrongful outfits and captures, of which your lordship has taken note. But in reply to the remonstrances that followed, the answer was prompt that they no longer raised questions that called for the interposition of the Executive Department. Its whole duty had been performed. The true remedy was now open by an appeal to the Courts. The language of Adams in his reply to M. Correa de Serra, a portion of which only I perceive has been introduced in your lordship's note, goes directly to this point. I pray permission to supply it in the following extract:

"The Government of the United States has neither countenanced nor permitted any violation of that neutrality by their citizens. They have, by various and successive acts of legislation manifested their constant earnestness to fulfil their duties toward all the parties to that war. They have repressed every intended violation of them which has been brought before their Courts and substantiated by testimony conformable to principles recognised by all tribunals of similar jurisdiction."

Your lordship in reading this passage could hardly have failed to feel the force of the successive affirmations of facts which form the grounds of the plea that all the obligations imposed upon a neutral Power in such cases had been fulfilled. The fact in the case was that Correa de Serra in his representations had begun to change his grounds of complaint, and direct his charges against the administration of justice in the Courts. This was a position obviously untenable.

Much and sorely as I have felt at times the little chance that the United States has stood of receiving impartial justice in Her Majesty's Courts, I have never received from my Government any instructions which did not fully recognize the impropriety of raising a question in regard to their decisions. This makes no part whatever of the grounds upon which I am instructed to make reclamation. The question has never been as to what the judicial tribunals have done or failed to do. It turns exclusively upon the duties of a neutral Government, to perform its obligations to a friendly power by a prompt and energetic policy of repression of flagrant wrongs through existing means, and in the event of a failure of those means, by the adoption of others which it was entirely within its power to supply if so disposed. The responsibility entailed upon Her Majesty's Government in the present instance has always seemed to me to grow out of the feebleness of its measures of prevention at the outset, and its deliberate refusal to obtain an enlargement of its powers after existing remedies had proved unavailing.

With respect to that portion of your lordship's note which appears to defend the existing legislation as having really proved adequate, I beg leave only to remark that it is sufficiently answered by the fact that you proceed to specify in proof of it mainly those cases in which Her Majesty's Government is admitted to have taken a responsibility of action beyond the law. While I have always been ready to bear testimony to the eminent utility of the action for which your lordship appears to have assumed a grave responsibility, I am at a loss to perceive how this diminishes the force of the reasoning which would seek from the legitimate protection of the law of the land that performance of obligations which appears now to depend only on the courage of the Minister to transcend its limits.

And here I must pray permission to dwell a moment upon one passage of your lordship's note which has excited a strong sense of surprise, not to say astonishment. In order that I may by no possibility be guilty of any misconstruction of the meaning of the language I take the liberty with your permission to transfer the very words. They are these:

"You say, indeed, that the Government of the United States altered the law at the urgent request of the Portugese Minister.

"But you forget that the law thus altered was the law of 1794 and that the law of 1818 then adopted was in fact, so far as was considered applicable to the circumstances and institutions of this country, the model of our Foreign Enlistment Act of 1819.

"Surely, then, it is not enough to say that your Government at the request of Portugal induced Congress to provide a new and more stringent law for the purpose of preventing depredations if Great Britain has already such a law. Had the law of the United States of 1818 not been already in its main provisions adopted by our Legislature, you might reasonably have asked us [illegible] a new law, but surely we are not bound [illegible] making new laws [illegible] because new occasions arise."

If I do not rightly comprehend the sense of your lordship, I pray to be corrected when I assume it to be that an argument drawn from the precedent of the course of my Government in enacting a new law to meet the remonstrance of the Portuguese Minister has no force in supporting the representation I make in the present instance because these very provisions of American legislation have been already long since substantially adopted by Great Britain in the Enlistment Act, [illegible] which is now complained of as ineffective. In other words your lordship appears to take it for granted that Great Britain having already passed a law as stringent and effective as that of the United States is therefore justified in declining any proposal to go on amending it.

If this be in verity your position I must pray your pardon if I hazard the remark, in reply, that you cannot have given to the respective statutes in question the benefit of that careful collation which the occasion would seem to require. If you had done so you must have noticed that in point of fact they are materially unlike. The British law is, as your lordship states, a re-enactment of that of the United States, but it does not adopt all of its main provisions as you seem to suppose. Singularly enough it entirely omits those very same sections which were originally enacted in 1817 as a temporary law on the complaint of the Portuguese Minister and were made permanent in that of 1818. It is in these very sections that our experience has shown us to reside the best preventive force in the whole law. I do not doubt, as I had the honor to remark in my former note, that if they had also been incorporated into the British statute a large portion of the undertakings of which my Government so justly complains would either have never been commenced or if commenced, would never have been executed. Surely it was not from any fault of the United States that these effective provisions of their own law failed to find a place in the corresponding legislation of Great Britain. But the occasion having arisen when the absence of some similar security was felt by my Government to be productive of the most injurious effects, I cannot but think that it was not so unreasonable as your lordship appears to assume, that it should hope to see a willingness in that of Great Britain to make the reciprocal legislation still more complete. In that hope it was destined to be utterly disappointed. Her Majesty's Government decided not to act. Of that decision it is no part of my duty to complain. The responsibilities for the injuries done to citizens of the United States by the subjects of a friendly nation, by reason of this refusal to respond, surely cannot be made to rest with them. It appears, therefore, necessarily to attach to the party making the refusal."

But if the example thus set by Her Majesty's Government should come to be generally adopted and the principals of neutrality upon which it rests be recognized as a part of the code of international law, then it is not difficult to foresee the consequences. A new era in the relations of neutrals to belligerents on the high seas will open. Neutral ports in that event will, before long, become the true centers from which the most effective and dangerous enterprises against the commerce of belligerents may be contrived, fitted out and executed. The existing restriction upon the exploits of daring adventurers will rapidly become obsolete and no new ones will be adopted. Ships and money will always be at hand for the service of any Power sufficiently strong to hold forth a probability of repayment in any form, or adroit enough to secure a share of popular sympathy in its undertakings. New Floridas, Alabamas and Shenandoahs will appear on every sea. If such be the recognized law, I will not undertake to affirm that the country which I have the honor to represent would not in the end, be as able to accommodate itself to the new circumstances as Great Britain. Whilst I cannot but think that every moderate statesman would deprecate such a change, which could hardly fail to increase the hazard of lamentable complications among the great maritime Powers, I cannot see an escape from it, if a nation itself possessing a marine so numerous and extensively dispersed, decides to lead the way.

Entertaining these views, it appears scarcely necessary for me to follow your lordship further in the examination of details of former precedents either in English or American history. I am happily relieved from any such necessity by learning the conclusions to which Her Majesty's Government have arrived. Understanding it to decline the proposal of arbitration, which I had the honor, under instruction, to present, in any form, for reasons assigned by your lordship, I nevertheless am happy to be informed that

"Her Majesty's Government are ready to consent to the appointment of a commission, to which shall be referred all claims arising during the late civil war which the two Powers shall agree to refer to the Commissioners."

I have taken measures to make known, at the earliest moment, this proposal to my Government, and shall ask permission to await the return of instructions before giving a reply.

Disclaiming all authority to express in advance any opinion on the part of my Government, I pray, at the same time, your lordship's attention to a single circumstance which without a previous agreement upon the great principle of international law involved in this controversy, may raise a difficulty in the way of accepting the proposal. At a first glance it would appear as if it were, in substance identically the same with that long ago made by the Portuguese Government to that of the United States. The essence of the answer returned in that case happens to have lately passed under your eye, since it is found incorporated in your lordship's note. I trust I cannot be suspected of a desire to imply that in taking this step Her Majesty's Government could have sought to appear either as proposing on the one hand a measure which it foresaw must be declined, or, on the other, one which, if accepted, could be so accepted only at the risk of a charge of disavowing the views of constitutional law entertained by my Government in former times. It may indeed be that in this view, I may, after explanation, find that I have misconceived the nature of your lordship's proposal on the view which my Government will take of it, in which case I pray you to excuse the suggestion and consider it as made without authority, and solely in the hope of eliciting such explanation.

I take great satisfaction in concluding this note by cordially responding to your lordship's request:

"To join with Her Majesty's Government in rejoicing that the war has ended without any rupture between two nations which ought to be connected by the closest bonds of amity."

I likewise receive with great pleasure your lordship's assurances that the efforts by which the Government and Congress of my country have shaken off slavery "have the warmest sympathies of the people of these kingdoms."

If from painful observation in a service extended through four years, I cannot in candor yield my entire assent to this statement as applied to a large and too influential portion of Her Majesty's subjects; if it has been my misfortune to observe in the process of so wonderful a revolution a degree of coldness and apathy prevailing in many quarters from which my countrymen had every right to expect warm and earnest sympathy; if throughout this great trial, the severity of which few not well versed in the nature of our institutions could fully comprehend, the voice of encouragement from this side of the water has too often emitted a doubtful sound, I yet indulge the hope that the result arrived at will ultimately correct the hasty and harsh judgments that flowed from lack of faith and of confidence of our fidelity to a righteous cause. Of the friendly disposition in this regard of the members of Her Majesty's Government and especially of your lordship, I have never permitted myself to doubt. And yet in the midst of the gravest of our difficulties I cannot forget that even your lordship was pleased in an official published dispatch, to visit with the severity of your but too weighty censure, the greatest political measure of the late lamented President—that which, in fact, opened the only practicable way to the final attainment of the glorious end. Under such circumstances I pray you not to be surprised if I am compelled not to disguise the belief that with my Government, as among my countrymen at large, there is still felt a strong sense of injured feeling which only time and the hopes of a better understanding in the future held out by the conciliatory strain in your lordship's note are likely to correct.

Recognizing most fully the justice and propriety of the joint policy marked out in your concluding sentence, I have, etc.

WILCOX & GIBBS SEWING MACHINE.

We would call attention to the following facts in connection with this Machine, which renders it superior to any other in use:

It forms a flat elastic seam which will not rip in wear;
It is entirely noiseless;
A patented device prevents its being turned backward;
The needle cannot be set wrong;
Can be used successfully without other instructions than accompany the Machine;
It received the Gold Medal of the American Institute in 1863. For particulars enquire of

THE STANDARD AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!

AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS.

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENTION of parties wanting Billiard Tables to the great superiority of the tables manufactured exclusively at their establishment.

At the Billiard Congress of 1863, nine-tenths of all the first class players of America [illegible] used at all matches for the Championship as the best and only reliable tables.

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges who have universally pronounced them unequaled for good cushions, excellence and durability.

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ in the construction of our tables a variety of machines specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and a thorough knowledge of all the requisites of a Billiard table, and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.

The great French Billiard Player, M. Berger, has published the following letter:

NEW YORK, 21 August, 1861.

On the eve of leaving the United States I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior that I am happy to introduce their style of cushion into France. They have united in their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration.

"BERGER CLAUDIUS,
Prof of Billiards, Paris."

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first class articles at a fair price and will not make an inferior article at any price.

Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. The "Billiard Cue," a journal published in the interest of Billiards and containing details of all novelties, a copious record of Billiard news and everything of interest to amateurs of Billiards, sent free on application.

H. E. HUGHES,
730 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal., is our only authorized Agent on the Pacific coast, to whom all orders should be addressed.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions to the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLOUR ALBUS,

And in every disease any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once reinforced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man. He stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom, or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor.—The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS AND
CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGUARY AND BURNING, OR PAINFUL URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases and you will ever give praise to
